

What Did You Want to Be When You Were Younger?

When you were a kid, what did you imagine you would become someday?

Maybe you wanted to be a doctor.

A teacher.

An artist.

A singer.

A pilot.

A chef.

Maybe you wanted to be famous.

Or maybe you had absolutely no idea.

Sometimes we grow up with a very clear picture of our future. And sometimes life has other plans.

We change.

Our priorities change.

The things we once dreamed about may no longer be what we want.

Sometimes we take a completely different path and end up somewhere we never expected.

And sometimes, we discover something we love much later in life.

There is no age limit for changing direction.

So let's talk about it.

Your turn

What did you want to be when you were younger?

Did you end up doing what you imagined?

If not, where did life take you instead?

And if you could sit down with your younger self for a cup of coffee today, what would you tell them?

You don't need to have an impressive story.

Maybe you followed your childhood dream.

Maybe you abandoned it.

Maybe you're still figuring things out.

Maybe you're 20.

Maybe you're 40.

Maybe you're 70.

Tell us your story.

And who knows?

Someone reading your comment might be going through the same thing.

Grab a virtual coffee and join the conversation.